The increase in federal laws and regulations governing businesses of all types and the focus of enforcement placed on companies' compliance efforts creates opportunities for attorneys with demonstrated expertise in law and compliance. Seton Hall Law School now provides training beyond the J.D. degree to select students, practitioners and scholars in the growing and increasingly complex area of corporate compliance. Interested students may pursue an entirely online LL.M. degree option or a hybrid option with the opportunity to come to campus for in-person instruction.

Admission

A candidate seeking admission to the LLM program must have a J.D. degree from a law school that is approved by the Section of Legal Education of the American Bar Association or the foreign equivalent from a school of law. As Seton Hall Law School admits highly qualified candidates, the program is very competitive. The Admissions Committee considers practice experience, graduate degrees in the financial field, quality of law school academic record, demonstrated interest in compliance, and evidenced ability to excel in academic pursuits. The application process is rolling and applications for admission are accepted at any time.

Academic Standing

LLM students must remain in good academic standing throughout the program. View the full academic policy. (<https://law.shu.edu/academics/online/mls-llm-academic-policy.html>)

Course of Study

LL.M. candidates must meet the following requirements:

- Completion of 24 credit hours of course work at the Law School;
- Completion of a high quality paper, under the supervision of a full-time faculty member; and
- Maintenance of a GPA of at least 3.0.
