

COMMUNICATION MINOR

Students who wish to enrich their understanding of communication in conjunction with another major program may enroll in the department's minor program. Minors deal with specific subjects such as advertising, film, journalism, public relations, speech, theater, computer graphics, radio or television. A student's minor program is developed with a department faculty adviser.

Students wishing to minor in Communication must take nine (9) credits of required courses below, plus an additional 12 credits in Communication elective courses for a total of 21 credits.
