

DIPLOMACY AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS MAJOR (B.S.)

The undergraduate program is based on an interdisciplinary global studies curriculum with strong components of cultural understanding, international economics and leadership. A comprehensive world languages program enables students to attain professional proficiency in multiple languages. All students complete a professional internship in order to gain an understanding of career opportunities available to them upon graduation. The School of Diplomacy and International Relations sponsors regional study trips. Opportunities to participate in Model U.N. and other activities related to the United Nations also are available.

To attain the degree of Bachelor of Science in Diplomacy and International Relations, students must complete the program for a total of 120 credits. While each student is guided by a faculty adviser of the School, the ultimate responsibility for complying with curriculum requirements rests with the student. To complete degree requirements satisfactorily, students must have a cumulative GPA of at least 2.0. Transfer students should obtain academic advisement from one of the Associate Deans.
