

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION MINOR

(For College of Arts and Sciences and School of Diplomacy and International Relations majors)

Available to Seton Hall students majoring in disciplines other than business, the minor in business administration supplements the liberal arts or sciences preparation and facilitates a transition to a business career. Arts and sciences economics majors may also elect this minor.

Three categories totaling 24 credits are required, along with a minimum GPA of 2.25 in the minor program. The categories are:

1. Environment of Business, including one course each in economics and law;
2. Tools of Business, including one course each in accounting, statistics and information technology management; and
3. Functional Areas of Business, including one course each in finance, management and marketing.

With the approval of the associate dean of the Stillman School, a maximum of 6 credits may be transferred from other institutions and applied toward the minor in business administration.

Changing to a Business Major from the Minor

The minor in business administration is specifically not available to students majoring in business. The economics course designated for the minor does not count toward the core requirements for a degree in business administration. If a student completes the economics course and then changes to a major in business, the student must still meet all core economics course requirements (ECON 1402 Principles of Economics I, ECON 1403 Principles of Economics II and ECON 2408 Money and Banking (offered by the Department of Finance)).
